Humility in Recovery and How to Develop It

JAN 2021

Humility and Defense Mechanisms

In relation to Twelve-Step spirituality, humility in recovery is considered a prized virtue and essential to the practice of both the 12 Steps and 12 Traditions.

Humility is difficult for most human beings and doubtful it can be practiced absolutely by many, if any of us. It requires a secure sincerity and integrated sense of oneself, a self-love, compassion and emotional maturity that's often absent, particularly in those of us with a history of alcoholism and/or addiction.

Time to Soar

Humility is simply having a realistic sense of oneself. A humble person accurately acknowledges both their strengths and limitations. These people have the capacity to be honest and without pretense in relation to themselves. They are "right-sized" and without false pride, arrogance, or importantly, low self-esteem. They are modest and without "ego", they are authentic and real, and can admit to their vulnerability.

Humility in recovery is an essential foundation for a better life. For instance, it provides us with the willingness to surrender our ego and false pride. It also provides the courage to show our vulnerable side and admit to the problem of addiction. Humility gives us the willingness to ask for help and guidance from others and to practice trust beyond ourselves. It enables us to see the need for and to embrace change. Humility connects us to others through the expression of our humanity and is a bridge to freedom from our self-imposed isolation.

The Virtues Inherent to Humility and the 12 Steps

The virtues of self awareness, acceptance, and self-honesty, give us the courage and willingness to be vulnerable, to be truly humble. In other words, by working on these virtues we increase our capacity to be humble in our relationship with ourselves and others. However, if we lack self-awareness and self-acceptance we will also lack self honesty and therefore fail to be humble. We'll be unable to show our true self to others, to be vulnerable, and will lack authenticity in our relationships. We will need to defend ourselves instead.

The 12 Steps all involve practices and principles that encourage the aforementioned virtues. They require the practice of humility, as well as develop it. The Steps involve:

- admitting our limitations to ourselves and others
- asking for help from outside of ourselves and seeking guidance
- a willingness to accept, take responsibility for, and to admit our faults and weaknesses
- the willingness to practice forgiveness
- enthusiasm, courage and honesty to be vulnerable with others, and to make our amends

In 1936, she returned to her family in the United States and sought help from doctors. Marty twice attempted suicide before discovering Anonymous (AA).

She described the "revelation" she had reading an early copy of Alcoholics Anonymous:

"I wasn't the only person in the world who felt and behaved like this! I wasn't mad or vicious – I was a sick person. I was suffering from an actual disease that had a name and symptoms like diabetes or cancer or TB and a disease was respectable, not a moral stigma."

At the time, many people believed that alcohol use disorder women caused was underlying psychiatric problems, and that alcohol use problems were more pathological among women than among men.

> Center on Alcohol Studies, Marty founded the National Committee for Education on Alcoholism (NCEA) to reduce stigma and help people get the treatment they needed. A main tenet of Alcoholics the organization's mission was that alcoholism is a public health problem, and therefore a public responsibility. Marty credited her life partner, Priscilla Peck, with encouraging her to write the book, Primer on Alcoholism, and with helping her conceptualize the NCEA. Today this organization is called the National Council on Alcohol and Drug Dependence (NCAAD) and expanded its work to include other substance use disorders.

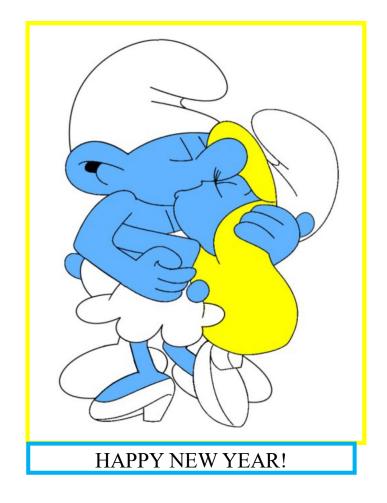

Mrs. Marty Mann—"Women Suffer Too"

Marty was a pioneer in removing barriers to treatment for substance use disorders, and that legacy continues to this day: under the Affordable Care Act, substance use disorder services are now essential health benefits that insurance plans in the Health Insurance Marketplace are required to cover. The law also requires that covered substance use disorder benefits are comparable to medical and surgical benefits.

Definition Of Alcoholism

"Alcoholism is a primary, chronic disease with genetic, psychosocial, and environmental factors influencing its development and manifestations. The disease is often progressive and fatal. It is or periodic: characterized by continuous impaired control over drinking, preoccupation with the drug alcohol, use of alcohol despite adverse consequences, and distortions thinking, most notably denial."

disease entity in addition to and separate from other pathophysiologic states which may be associated with it. "Primary" suggests that alcoholism, as an addiction, is not a symptom of an underlying disease state.

"Disease" means an involuntary disability. represents the sum of the abnormal phenomena displayed by a group of individuals. These phenomena are associated with a specified common set of characteristics by which these individuals differ from the norm, and which places them at a disadvantage.

"Often progressive and fatal" means that the persists over time and that physical, emotional, and social changes are often cumulative and may progress as drinking continues. Alcoholism causes premature death through overdose, organic complications involving the brain, liver, heart and many other organs, and by contributing to suicide, homicide, motor vehicle crashes, and other traumatic events.

"Impaired control" means the inability to limit alcohol use or to consistently limit on any drinking "Primary" refers to the nature of alcoholism as a occasion the duration of the episode, the quantity consumed, and/or the behavioral consequences of drinking.

The "Ego Defenses" That Prevent Humility

Denial, rationalization, minimization, projection, etc., are the unconscious "defense mechanisms" that diminish our capacity to be humble. These psychic or ego defenses promote and perpetuate the following The healing process is not an easy one. It is a long strategy.

health (e.g., alcohol withdrawal syndromes, liver disease, gastritis, anemia, neurological disorders); psychological functioning (e.g., impairments in cognition, changes in mood and behavior); interpersonal functioning (e.g., marital problems and child abuse, impaired social relationships); occupational functioning (e.g., scholastic or job problems); and legal, financial, or spiritual problems.

"Denial" is used here not only in the psychoanalytic sense of a single psychological defense mechanism disavowing the significance of events, but more broadly to include a range of psychological maneuvers designed to reduce awareness of the fact that alcohol use is the cause of an individual's problems rather than a solution to those problems. Denial becomes an integral part of the disease and a major obstacle to recovery.

Anonymity – A Spiritual Foundation

"Anonymity is the spiritual foundation of all our traditions, ever reminding us to place principles before personalities."

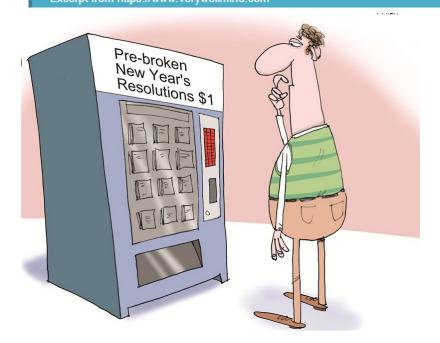

A hallmark of 12-step recovery programs is the offer of anonymity to participants, but the principle goes much deeper than just not revealing last names. To keep the focus on principles rather than personalities, personal anonymity should be maintained at all levels of participation in 12-step fellowship—in meetings, in 12th step work, and even in sponsorship.

Some note that the long form of the 12th Tradition says that anonymity reminds the member to practice a genuine humility. When you walk into a meeting, you leave "what you are" at the door and walk in as "who you are." This translates into practices of not using honorifics. A judge isn't "Your Honor" at a meeting. A priest isn't "Father." All are equal, and all are just one drink away from being drunk.

Tradition 12 means that the principles of the 12-step program should be put first, not anyone's personal opinion. It is tempting to deviate from the principles when someone you care about and respect is hurting. But in doing so, you let a little more of your principles slip away, and then the program loses a little more of its foundation.

That's why we need to have that unconditional love for the principles—so we may love each other unconditionally. That love comes from taking the risks of resting on the principles rather than giving in and playing God. We don't give them the chance to grow in the truth of AA's wisdom we allow them to create their own. It may appear to be helpful, but it is just as damaging and unloving to the individual as it is to AA on the whole.

¹Excerpt from https://www.verywellmind.com

My husband said he's leaving me because I'm drunk all the time.

Dear God, I got married?

Two drunk guys were about to get into a fight, when one draws a line in the dirt and slurs, "If you cross this, I'll hit you in the face."

Lyis is the punchline!

A wife was in bed with her lover when she heard her husband's key in the door. "Stay where you are," she whispered. "He's so drunk he won't even notice you're in bed with me."

The husband lurched into bed, but a few minutes later, through a drunken haze, he saw six feet sticking out at the end of the bed.

He turned to his wife: "Hey, there are six feet in this bed. There should only be four. What's going on?"

"You're so drunk you miscounted," said the wife. "Get out of bed and try again. You can see better from over there."

The husband climbed out of bed and counted again: "One, two, three, four. Oh, you're right."
