

The MESSENGER

Middle Tennessee Central Office Intergroup

FEB 2025
MESSENGER

Step Two

"Came to believe that a Power greater than ourselves could restore us to sanity."

Tradition Two

"For our group purpose there is but one ultimate authority—a loving God as He may express Himself in our group conscience. Our leaders are but trusted servants; they do not govern."

Concept Two

"The General Service Conference of A.A. has become, for nearly every practical purpose, the active voice and the effective conscience of our whole Society in its world affairs.."

BAD HABITS

A teenage AA connects to life

I was getting ready to go out with my best friend, primping in the mirror, and thinking, "This is going to be the best night of my life!" I was fourteen years old, acting as if I were thirty, and heading off to meet my girlfriend at my first high school outdoor event. But of course, it's not a party unless you have a few drinks in you.

With that in mind, we found a couple of seniors to help us buy some booze. My favorite was blackberry brandy, straight and warm. My friend had three gulps and I slammed the rest of the quart. I can only remember walking into the stadium and telling a good friend that she was fat and needed a diet. Afterwards, all went black.

When I awoke in the hospital, I recall my mother sounding faintly relieved, saying, "She is out of a coma!" I had blown a .40 and I weighed ninety-eight pounds. Alcohol had acted as a poison in my body; I had tripled in size and had swollen up like a balloon. I was also nauseous, and exhibiting signs of delirium tremens. This happened in the 1980s, and where I was from, teenagers didn't have a plush place to go, so I was put into a mental ward with adults and padded rooms. When I came to, three days had passed. And, just like many times before, I had no recollection of what had happened.

A doctor told me that at the rate I was drinking, I would be dead within a few weeks. My body demanded more alcohol than it could handle. For two weeks, I stayed in that hospital and then I was put into outpatient treatment. My parents wouldn't see me, and I was scared straight.

That was the last time I drank or drugged. I decided to try AA, but only for thirty days. I was angry, abusive, abrasive, and defiant--a brat whirling in the mire of alcoholism. I was not going to be told by strangers what to do. I was different, and they could not understand.

There was no way for me to stay sober without the help of others. I had some tough cookies who gave it to me straight, and I believe it saved my life. I was the kind of girl that if you gave me an inch, I would take ten miles. A speaker once said, "I always wanted the new car; I just didn't want to make the payments." That was me, wanting something for nothing.

I am now thirty-five years old and I have been sober for longer than I had been drinking. I would love to say that everything is perfect, but that's not the case. Today, however, I am connected to life, I use a sponsor, and I work the Twelve Steps.

AA gave me good habits to replace my bad habits. Instead of sitting in self-pity, I was told to hit meetings early and do service by helping to set up chairs and doing whatever was needed (usefulness). Instead of fighting, I was told to do something nice for people without getting caught (humility). Instead of sitting in my head, I was told to go down my home group's phone list, call other members on their sobriety birthday, and wish them a wonderful day (thinking of others). Instead of taking friends hostage, I was told to meet at least two new females wherever I went and reach out the hand of AA to them (giving back what was given to me).

I still do these things today; they are the principles that I live my life by. Back then, I couldn't understand how it was going to keep me sober, but now I know that it's the actions I take--not my thoughts--that make me feel good.

I thought I was too young to be a full-blown alcoholic, but I am a true alcoholic: when I drank, I did not know what was going to happen next.

Today, I have more than twenty years of sobriety. I've earned a master's degree, I own a disc jockey service, and I have a family who loves me and depends upon me.

I have been graced by following twelve simple suggestions to the best of my ability. I am grateful that God allowed me to save my butt long enough so that I could hear the message.

I LOVE THAT GUY

I love that guy who has to get used clothes for free at the pantry because he spent all of his money again on alcohol and drugs, because I was that guy.

I love that guy who spent his whole paycheck in a few hours on alcohol and drugs, because I was that guy.

I love that guy who's sold his own vehicles, and one of his landlord's, to support his alcohol and drug addictions, because I was that guy.

I love that guy who sold his food stamps to buy booze, because I was that guy.

I love that guy who goes to several meetings a day just so he can get in out of the weather and drink free coffee, because I was that guy.

I love that guy who searches butt cans outside AA meetings when nobody is looking, because I was that guy.

I love that guy at the meeting who sits quietly in the back of the room because he's afraid to talk, and afraid to not talk, thinking people will tell him to leave, because I was that guy.

I love that guy at the meeting who desperately wants to stay for the "meeting after the meeting" and ask someone for help, but he's so frozen with fear that he sneaks out the door, because I was that guy.

I love that guy who became so spiritually, mentally, and physically worn out he thought robbing a bank would finally stop the madness, because I am that guy.

I love the guy who's sitting behind bars, waiting to be sentenced, who decides to go to the jail AA meeting just to get out of his cell for an hour to break the boredom, and finally finds that elusive sobriety he's been seeking for 23 years, because I am that guy.

I love that guy who is deathly afraid to do a fearless and thorough Fourth Step, because he can't face sharing with another human being all the horrible things he's done in his life, but he does it anyway, because I am that guy.

Finally, I love all the alcoholics who put a dollar or two in the basket when I couldn't and sometimes wouldn't ... who shared their experience, strength and hope with me when I couldn't and wouldn't share mine ... who poured me a cup of coffee and smiled like they were glad to see me, even when I couldn't smile back ... and who gave me so many rides to and from meetings and encouraged me to "keep coming back."

Thank you God and AA for the opportunity to spend the rest of my life trying to help other alcoholics like that guy—because that guy is me.

MANAGER'S REPORT

JANUARY 13, 2025

Well, it is 2025, if you missed it. In my past, I know I was late to the new year a few times. Holidays were great excuses to spend money I did not have for things I did not need, many times with the wrong people. Friends and family could not depend on having what I promised, and children were confused.

Most of my painful memories were my responsibility.

It is not that way now, so if I have promised you something, I BELIEVE I HAVE DELIVERED. If not, speak now..... or forever "hold your peace"(maybe your piece). AIN'T IT GREAT TO BE SOBER AND KNOW YOU HAVE A CLEAN SLATE FOR 2025.

2024 was a great year for our Central Office. Thanks to our fellowship in Middle Tennessee, 2025 will be also. Our financial statement reflects our intention for 2024. If you are new, Central Office sells AA literature and supplies. We depend on contributions to sell at the lowest prices and meet the needs of all AA entities and individuals. We distributed many items, pamphlets and books at no charge or no profit in 2024, as the office shared our blessings. More books were put in jails and prisons, and those were purchased with specific contributions. If you have questions about operations, finances or who does what, you can ask anytime. The office number is 615-831-1050, my cell number is 615-973-9898, email is mtcoaa@aol.com.

Of course, there are many things we can do better. One is improve our technology for Zoom meetings. If you would like to participate in that area, please talk to Bill or myself. I hope to have our website improved, with more interactive resources and as always, have as many volunteers as possible on our Committees, Steering Committee and volunteers. I plan to be more active outside the Office, and I have some specific goals to include more Groups, and to share our resources with the community. Al C. has started one project, giving Big Books to schools and libraries. An "inventory" for the Intergroup will reveal many needed changes, so be available to participate. I know you are excited as ever, so thanks for all your support and encouragement.

If not here before, we have a unique tradition here called "TATO", TONIGHT AND TONIGHT ONLY. You will be glad you are here.

"God forbid that Alcoholics Anonymous ever become frozen or rigid in its ways of doing or thinking." Bill W. in a letter to Ed Webster, author of The Little Red Book.

<<Ed Webster, a founding member of the Nicollet Group of Minneapolis began teaching "Twelve Step Study" classes to other members of the local fellowship in 1942. By 1946, The Grapevine reported that according to the group's records, 75% of its members achieved recovery. This phenomenal success was attributed in large part to Ed's contributions. Ed and Barry Collins, another founding member of Minneapolis A.A., decided to collect the lectures in a small publication originally titled The Twelve Steps but later nicknamed "The Little Red Book."

Though never officially a part of the A.A. canon of conference-approved literature, The Little Red Book was endorsed by both Dr. Bob, who had a hand in its writing, and by Bill W. Bill W. wrote Barry Collins about the Minneapolis book in November 1950:

"The Little Red Book does fill a definite need and has wide circulation. Therefore, its usefulness is unquestioned. AA has a definite place for such a book. Someday I may try to write an introduction book myself which I hope might complement favorably with The Little Red Book. Here at the Foundation we are not policemen; we're a service and AAs are free to read any book they choose." Bill W.

This letter from the Archives is dated May 31, 1949 from Bill W. to Ed Webster thanking him for his contribution to the fellowship.>> Harbor Area Central Office website
